THE CLASS OF 1944

Presents

LIBER ACTORUM

Dedication

Most classes proudly, and rightly so, dedicate their Liber Actorum to an individual.

The Class of 1944, however, humbly dedicates this, their "Book of Deeds," to those of the Alumni who by their deeds, have made possible ultimate victory.

FOREWORD

To gather together, in one place, the record of a class is, in ordinary times, a matter of attention to detail. In these days, however, many difficulties occur. The more or less sudden calls for those in aviation and special services, the calling under Selective Service, the irregular dates of graduation for some, all tend to make the task of compiling a "book of deeds" difficult.

Here is the record of the boys who have received or will receive their diplomas during the school year. Some of them had their diplomas dated in 1943. But for all it is an attempt, to gather in one place, their records of personal achievement, and service to the School.

Mr. Powers' Letter

With each succeeding year, the war comes closer to you boys who are about to graduate. More than forty boys of the present Class I are already in the armed forces. The war brings an unwelcome interruption to your schooling, but you must accept it as something that cannot be avoided. The defense of your country is your first and highest duty, and I know that each of you is ready to do his part with courage and devotion.

Even though your country should require your services for a period of years, stick to your purpose to complete your college education. Those of you who have entered the armed forces before the completion of your Class I work should make plans without delay to earn credit for any such studies as you may have missed. Write to the United States Armed Forces Institute, Madison 3, Wisconsin, for information about in-service study. Most higher institutions and other accrediting agencies, and even the officers in charge of officer candidate schools within the service, will require that you present, not a diploma, but rather a transcript showing four years of secondary school study completed. Boys who have been admitted to College may obtain credit for college work also through the Armed Forces Institute.

While you are waiting to be called, keep yourself in top physical condition. I have no misgivings about your mental preparedness. Eat plenty of plain, wholesome food. Get to bed early. Walk as much as you can, with well-fitting shoes. Take part in competitive outdoor sports. Learn to swim under water; and to float, whether the water be smooth or rough, without becoming panicky. Your life may depend on this kind of competence.

While the war lasts and you are in the service, you will give it your all-out effort, for you will be performing a sacred duty. You will be fighting not only for the safety of your own people but for an object very close to yourself—your right, and the right of every American boy, to shape your own future as your plans direct and your capacity permits.

In all material emergencies of the country, Latin School boys have responded eagerly to the call of duty and their deeds have made up a glorious history. I have no doubt whatever that the Latin School boys of today will show themselves worthy of that splendid heritage. We of the Faculty salute you and pray that God will bring you safely back.

ACTIVITIES

Liber Actorum

The Yearbook Committee offers this Liber Actorum to the Class of 1944 and its friends. It is a record of the activities and achievements of the two hundred-fifty odd boys who are graduating in this year of war.

The committee hopes that this Liber Actorum will be kept and cherished by the Class. This Yearbook, we feel, can be opened by the men of this class in the years to come with feelings of pride and pleasure.

The work of making this Yearbook has been long and difficult. The work has been thankless and sometimes boring. We hope that, at sometime, a reader of this Liber Actorum will give merely a thought to the work of those boys who made this Yearbook.

Special thanks must be given to Messrs. Dunn, Marson, and Wenners, without whose sage advice this Liber Actorum would not have been published.

CLASS BANQUET

The Graduating Class of 1944 of the Boston Latin School held its first annual Banquet on Thursday evening, June 1, 1944 at the Georgian Room of the Hotel Statler. The dinner began at 6:30.

Even though one hundred percent attendance was hampered by the absence of many of the boys in the Armed Forces of the country—the cooperation of the remaining members of the class was exhibited at the banquet.

Lee J. Dunn, our genial librarian, whose fame for wit and repartee is known to us all, acted as toastmaster.

He introduced the principal speaker Mr. E. C. Johnson, '00. Among the invited guests were our esteemed headmaster Mr. Joseph L. Powers, Elmer R. Bowker, Francis Cleary, Gerard Cleary, Dr. John E. Collins, Lee J. Dunn, Charles S. Fitzgerald, Charles French, Henry R. Gardner, Aaron Gordon, Joseph Hobbs, Max Levine, Dr.

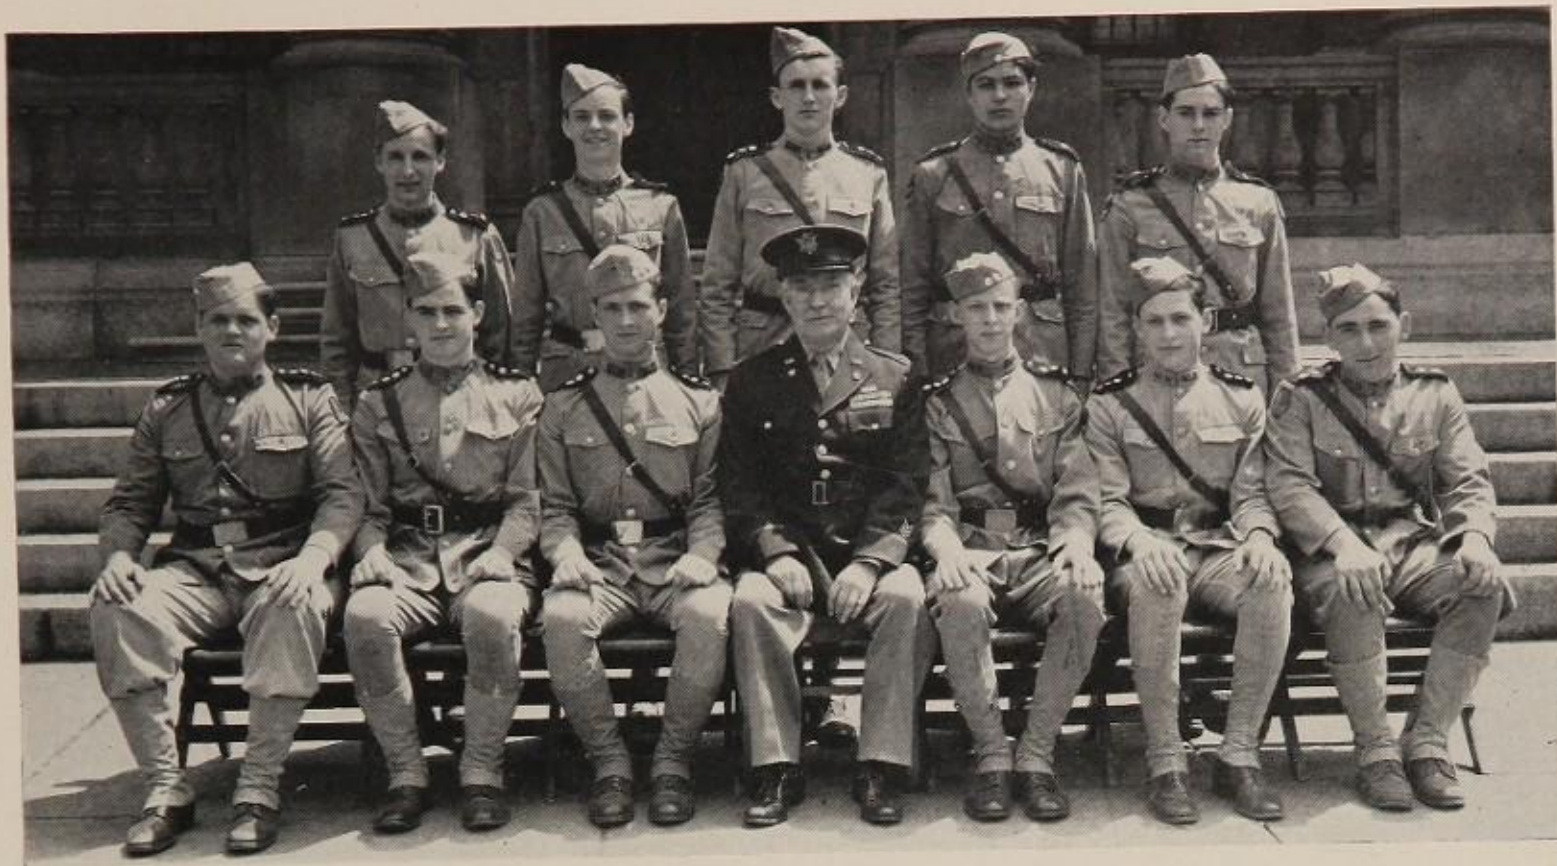

William H. Marnell, George S. Penney, Fred P. H. Pike, Ralph Quinn, and Mr. Clinton B. Wilbur.

The dignity and decorum that reigned at this banquet has never been equaled in modern times. This is due to the fact that the committee was instrumental in obtaining a very able lecturer, Joe Zilch, who delivered a series of educational treatises on "Etiquette at Banquets."

For many this will be the last formal gathering for the year 1944. The class was in full realization of this fact, and each member of the class made every effort to attend.

Our heartfelt appreciation is hereby extended to the Banquet committee headed by Kevin F. MacGovern and ably assisted by Daniel Ahern, Paul Coakley, Arthur Collins, Bill Dacey, Tim Donovan, Bill Hart, Bill Gillis, Bob Hunter, Maurice Liss, Austin Lyne, Herb Shulman, and Paul Vergakes.

CLASS DAY COMMITTEE

On Thursday, April 13 the Class Day Exercises of the graduating class of 1944 were held in the school hall. Not only the juniors and sophomores but also families and friends of the boys present at the invitation of the Class, filled the hall to capacity.

The program was excellent. To the strains of a march played by the orchestra under the direction of Mr. Wagner, who was making his last appearance in that position in our school, the seniors marched into the hall. The exercises were opened as usual by Mr. Powers. After a few opening remarks he turned the meeting over to Kevin F. MacGovern. MacGovern the Secretary-Treasurer conducted the exercises in place of William J. Gallagher, who had been called into the army. After leading the assemblage in the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag, MacGovern delivered a short but timely address. Paul Pretiz entertained the audience with a piano solo.

Herbert Lipner Shulman dramatically delivered his excellent Class Oration.

After a selection by the school orchestra, the class prophecy was read by William Rosen and Martin I. Mondlick and in the mock radio broadcast many of the illustrious seniors got a glimpse of their futures. The Class Will, written by Robert D. Landy and Henry A. Steeger was read by the latter of the collaborators.

An address to the graduates was delivered by Lieut. Commander Paul A. Dever of the class of '19. The gist of the Commander's address was that peace would be maintained only by justice and not by armed force. At the conclusion of his remarks the seniors rose and sang the Class Song, composed by their classmate, William J. Hart, and left the hall to the strains of a march played by the orchestra.

Credit must be given to the class day committee headed by chairman Austin F. Lyne.

Lest we forget due mention should be made of the ushers. Capt. Paul J. Douglass, the chief usher, was assisted by his aide Lieut. Sam C. Abraham.

CLASS ORATION

Mr. Chairman, Mr. Powers, Commander Dever, members of the Faculty, guests of the Boston Latin School and fellow classmates:

At last the day for which we seniors have anxiously waited and hoped has arrived, and as we gather here surrounded by our esteemed head-master Mr. Powers, our worthy masters and fellow schoolmates to observe the customary Class Day, our chests are swelled with pride and our hearts overflowing. We experience a feeling of mixed emotions, of joy and sadness, of gratitude and humility. We reflect over the years spent here at Boston Latin School, of the opportunities afforded us to acquire a knowledge of the classics; how we struggled with Latin and Chemistry and juggled our Math; of the pleasant hours together in the chess club, the dramatic society, the literary group and the various other school clubs which brought us in closer contact with one another and gave us a chance to become better acquainted and at the same time to develop tolerance and good sportsmanship; and finally our associations in competitive sports, inter-scholastic debates, public declamation, and the other contests, all of which have fostered the spirit of confidence and aggressiveness, and will give us the sustaining power to meet competition in reaching our goals and objectives through the years to come. We are glad to have enjoyed the splendid spirit of fellowship and good-will existing between our masters and ourselves; this truly is the spirit of America at its best.

We are deeply grateful to our masters for their ever ready helping hand, for their patience and tolerance, for their sympathetic understanding and encouragement. If we unwittingly caused them heartaches or anxiety we ask their humble pardon, and assure them of our profound respect and genuine affection.

Here at Boston Latin School we have been trained for thoroughness and accuracy, necessary attributes for leadership; to assume responsibility and to be self-reliant. Our Alma Mater has kept faith with its historic and enviable past and sends us forth prepared to meet with courage and with confidence our sphere of life's requirements and the interesting and vexing problems and responsibilities which lie ahead. We shall look back with pride upon our Alma Mater and cherish the recollections of these days and accomplishments which have given us the required training to start us on life's destinies.

As we stand here on the threshold and look out we see a whole world engulfed in an appalling war—the evils of intolerance and imperialism let loose upon mankind by those who would substitute tyranny and thralldom for liberty. Satanic forces thru the instrumentality of certain nations attempting to overrun civilization and enslave the free peoples of the world. Is it any wonder that these forces are clashing with America, and that America is challenging their malignant threat? However, America stands fortified as a Christian nation; her very foundations rest upon the laws of God; her ideals of righteousness, justice, fair play, liberty, freedom and her conception of the way of life breathe the spirit of the word. Consequently America's light in this stricken world is a beacon which the forces of darkness have reason to know will eventually lead them to their destruction.

America has prevailed in every war from the Revolutionary War in 1776 when she fought to be free from the political fetters of a tyrannical King down thru World War I when she halted the barbarian hordes of the Kaiser. Victory, however, was not by might alone; it was through the spirit of God that she confounded her enemies; and it is to her undying credit that America has never repudiated the God of her Youth. It is this same spirit, her most powerful secret weapon against which her enemies are helpless, which has guided and protected America along the way in the past, and which will be her shield and sword in the future. America's trust is in the Divine Creator and His word. Fulfillment of her destiny is therefore assured.

From our vista we see at this time an unmistakable challenge to the youth of America—unlimited opportunity for service. While some of us may receive a few months of College on leaving our Alma Mater, the great number of us will, before many weeks have passed, follow those of our classmates who are already wearing the colors. To us falls the sacred privilege to defend those principles and ideals of justice, freedom and equality upon which are founded the American tradition and the American way of life. Surely we can take no pride in what has gone before unless we now, drawing renewed loyalty from the record of devotion that has been handed down to us, take our place in the struggle for the preservation of human liberty and the abolition of the principles of imperialism and totalitarianism.

In the seriousness of this hour we pause and ponder the question so often propounded: What after the war is won? What kind of a country will you and I and the thousands of other boys find when we come home? Will we find that while we have been fighting in the far flung theatres of war a new order has been established here? God forbid. We shall expect to find our country rid of those men and women who have in the past sought to destroy the Constitution of this nation and the liberties and freedom by it vouchsafed to the American people. Victory on the battle front is valueless to us if, when we return, we find that we have lost our American soul—our American way of life. When the smoke of this war's battles shall have cleared away, we want to see Old Glory, unstained and untorn, waiving over this land; that when the constitutional infidels and saboteurs, the liberty thieves and freedom's foes are dead, the Constitution unaltered and unchanged, will be the supreme law of this land, and the liberty-loving, God-fearing men and women of this nation will still put their unfaltering trust and unfailing faith in that Constitution.

With fortitude and steadfast purpose we take leave from our beloved Latin School, and resolve to be ever mindful of the teachings of our Alma Mater and ever loyal to her traditions. With such a rich heritage we cannot fail, we will not fail. We are prepared to discharge our full measure of responsibility as citizens and as champions of human rights; to have a part in helping to solve the great political, economic and industrial problems that will demand solution in the decade following the close of the war. America's hope lies in her youth.

HERBERT LIPNER SHULMAN

CLASS WILL

We, the members of the three hundredth and ninth graduating class, the class of 1944, of the renowned and esteemed Boston Latin School, in the County of Suffolk, in the state of Massachusetts, of the United States of America, believing ourselves to be yet of sound mind and body, after struggling through an appalling conglomeration of test papers, lunch-room passes, and late slips, and having been educated in the facts of gentlemanly life, do hereby declare this to be our last will and testament and bequeath upon those who will accept, the following:

To Mr. Powers: Grateful thanks for his excellent guidance, both as headmaster and friend, and the hope that the next senior class will be able to make the lower classmen walk in the corridors.

To Mr. McGuffin: A big, bright, shiny, new printing press, to make his passes on.

To Mr. Shea: A bottle of young Wild-root Cream Oil and a hair comb.

To Mr. Bowker: A tricycle to speed around, more solid figures, and four more hands.

To Mr. Godfrey: That master in the art of deception, an "Incomplete" stamp, to save time.

To Mr. Hobbs and Mr. French: The reason why the boys stare out of the windows during the fifth and sixth periods.

To Mr. G. Cleary: The secret to Fitzie's whistle.

To Mr. F. Cleary: A SURE ten-day diet.

To Mr. Carroll: Some indelible pencils for his mark sheets.

To Mr. Levine: The annual wish that he will have a quiet home-room period next year.

To Mr. Dunn: A Class I with more money and the will to let go of it.

To Mr. Wilbur: A bottle of Sloan's Liniment.

To Mr. Pike: The latest issue of "Esquire" with a built-in Varga calendar.

And to those who are still trying to obtain the lofty prestige, the scintillating appearance, and the dignified manners of the noble Senior, we leave the following:

To Class II: Some very, very interesting discussions with Mr. Hobbs and our deep hope that you have at least fifty dollars in your pocket before entering Class I.

To Class III: Two more years of drill plus the intriguing mysteries of Cicero.

To Class IV: Our Phys. Ed. shorts. You can wear them as longies.

To Class V and VI: The requirements to enlist in the McGuffin troopers so that by the time you reach Class I, you can be field marshals.

And certain individuals among the Seniors leave this, these, and thus:

"Bill" Gallagher leaves a record for next year's president to try to beat.

MacLaren and Cogliano leave the Golden Keys to Success.

W. L. Peterson leaves the railroads to Mr. Godfrey, unwillingly though, because he can still be heard calling "But Sir!"

"Pole" Krensky leaves to stand in front of a cigar store.

Mealey leaves Mea the last half of his name.

MacGovern leaves singing "Your dime is my dime."

Hart leaves the rosy glow in his cheeks.

Twicken leaves his brother and his ties.

Chalapatas and Protapapas leave to open a fruit stand.

Spear leaves—to show Hitler the point.

Fluke leaves on his knees.

Wolfe and Wolfson leave on the loose.

Palczynski leaves his car with an assorted group of cash registers and gasoline cans in the back seat.

"Doc" Casey leaves after having added to the traditions of the long line of Caseys.

"Art" Collins, Parsons, Braithwaite, and "Lippy" Shulman leave in bursts of speed.

Reardon, Hagman, Hunter, Koffman, and Kaitz leave the statue at the front door. It was too heavy to carry.

"Red" Dacey leaves to become a traffic cop. With that thatch of hair he could do anything.

"Sheppy" Zaff leaves sheepishly.

"Jack" Conley leaves to chase "Douzie."

Seifer leaves by the front door; Liss leaves by the side door; Darman leaves by the back door; and Luftman leaves through the window.

The two Youngs leave looking much older.

Fish leaves hooked by Axelrod.

Krohn and Binder leave some nice pictures.

Schwartz and O'Connor leave the library—at last.

Vergakes leaves his profile.

"Jack" Hamilton leaves—he hopes.

Lindi and Landy leave confused.

J. J. Sullivan leaves his theories on the Mexican War.

"Pete" Garvin leaves to take dancing lessons from "Bill" Gallagher.

Young Goodnoh leaves young Danny.

Cohen, Cohen, Cohen, and Murphy leave to open a law office. Kriegsmann leaves to wash the windows.

Burton S. Adler leaves his initials.

Yannoni and Yavner leave saying "Ya, Ya."

Charm leaves the secret to his charms.

"Dick" Villa leaves his personality.

Joy leaves happy.

Pernokas leaves his two highly colored and interesting books "My Love Life," and "The Facts".

Silverstein leaves.

Praglin leaves to get soup, milk, cake, and ice cream for Mr. Godfrey.

Usseglio leaves anonymously.

"Bob" Brown leaves a point after the touchdown.

Pretiz leaves the piano—finally.

"Austie" Lyne leaves to take a P.G. course at Girl's Latin.

O'Meara and Teehan leave to see Charles Atlas.

McCarthy and Dimento leave to confer with Einstein.

"Tim" Donovan leaves for West Roxbury.

"Bill" Gillis leaves the answers to a lot of problems.

"Joe" Roveto leaves for Hollywood — underneath a freight car.

Conlon and Kessler leave—nuff sed.

Atwood, Shapiro, and Snyder leave singing, "My Heart belongs to Data."

Dawson leaves two cans of you know what.

Ahearn and Scannel leave gratefully.

Traverso leaves drooling poetry.
Weinstein, Weinstein, and Weinbaum leave to get a drink.

Margold leaves his dates, even though they are all history dates.

Dow and D'Arcy leave to take a course in milk distribution.

Kolovson leaves the padding in his shoulders.

"Herb" Nagel leaves Serverson the beautiful wave in his hair.

"Bill" Peterson leaves his whiffle.

Tessier, Douglas, and Hogan leave Fitzie the supply room with everything in it, he hopes.

And now that all has been bequeathed, the official seal bearing the image of the wolf is hereby now, and forever affixed to this, the last will and testament of the Class of 1944. All complaints may be left in Room 336 and should be addressed to

CLASS PROPHECY

This is station CBS with studios in the Public Latin School, Boston.

The following is a brief electrical transcription:

"Super Trots, Super Trots

Pass them all with Super Tro-o-ts.

English interlinear, too. . . .

Super Trots will pull you through—do-oo.

"The Dimento, Seifer, and McCarthy Super Trot Company takes great pleasure in announcing that its new offices are now located on the corner of Gyp and Censure Avenues in downtown Chelsea. Don't forget—'If your marks aren't becoming to you,
you ought to be coming to us'.

"Today, on 'Report to the Nation' you will hear Raymond Gram Zwick analyze the news, Fred Sternburg and his 'Sports Newsreel of the Air', and finally—Jack White, who will bring you the news of the screen and radio; and now, Morey Markowitz's Moldy Meatballs—rough, tough, and full of stuff, presents the renowned and distinguished Raymond Gram Zwick:

"Good afternoon. Today the eyes of the nation are turned to the big White House on Pennsylvania Avenue, where Smiling Bill Gallagher resides. All are wondering whether President Gallagher will run for a fourth term. On the other hand, some people's eyes are turned to the Little Black Shack on Hazelton Street in Mattapan, where Herb Shulman, the Bagel Bureaucrat lives in regal splendor. As you all know, Mr. Herbert Shulman and Mr. J. J. Sullivan are fighting it out for the Retrogressive Party's nomination. When Mr. Sullivan, the nation's silver-tongued demagogue, was yesterday asked in the offices of H. Spear and Harry Haveles, his campaign managers, whether he was confident of receiving the nomination, Mr. Sullivan gave his customary brilliant and laconic answer, 'Du Yah
. . . !'

"Now that the Retrogressive Party is badly split, the Presidential race narrows down to two candidates—President Bill

Gallagher, Democrat; and Beaton-Hughie, Republican.

"As we go on the air, all the facts concerning the defeat of Wendell Wilkas in the Wisconsin primary are not available.
However, this much we do know: When Mr. Wilkas refused to incorporate into his platform Margold's '98 Points for Lasting Peace," and then proceeded to denounce the Rosen-Margold clique as "un-American, un-Democratic and isolationist," Margold promptly set his political machine into action and brought about Hughie's election.
Watch your newspapers for further developments!

"And now we leave the Presidential muddle and turn our attention to Latin School scandals, which have shocked the nation. Mr. John Roy Kaitz, author of that thrilling exposé of food conditions—
'How I Gained Thirty More Pounds in the Lunchroom'—has brought these matters into the limelight. The important events described in the book include the following:

1. Felix Cogliano's first official act, after becoming headmaster of Latin School, was to abolish the censure and misdemeanor mark.
2. Kevin MacGovern was at the head of the bloodless revolution which seized control of the lunchroom and thus discredited the old motto, "Today the lunchroom, tomorrow the world!" of the former infamous dictator who had ruled since 1943. MacGovern has hired the contracting firm of Scannell, Teehan, O'Meara, and Rittenburg to hook up a loudspeaker in the lunchroom so that he might declaim to his marshalls and captains wherever he feels that he needs practice, and boy does he need practice.

3. The charge is made that the Shulman Bagel, now replacing the Stoller Spuckie, is composed chiefly of cement. The sudden arrival of Dacey, Dubin, Fish, and Fluke, all dentists, seems to confirm the rumor that Shulman is being paid a high commission by these oral surgeons.

4. It is reported that the famous Steeger Girls, painted by Steeger, Binder, and Krohn, now hang in the corridors—and that some are even hanging in the assembly hall to replace the Varga masterpieces of the past and now Mr. Zwick.

"Then Senate in Washington is taking prompt action. It has delegated the following committee to investigate: 'Moe Young, chairman; Lauren Young, Walter Peterson, and Bill Peterson.

And now, my time is up. This is Raymond Gram Kwick turning you over to your studio announcer. . . .

"Have you fallen arches? Hmm . . . ? Do your feet seem to say, 'You've let me down, son!' Or are you afraid to apply for a table captain's commission because you are too short? Well, if you find that your mind is troubled because of these ailments, come to see Sher and Wakstein, shoe specialists. They carry a full line of arch-supported shoes and shoes that will add three to four inches to your height. And now, after a brief pause with Kelson's Kola drink, let's listen to the 'Sports Newsreel of the Air.' Here's Fred Sternburg:

"Good afternoon. Today in the McNulty Garden, one of the fiercest grudge fights of the century took place—Kolovson vs. Liss. The referee was Luftman, and the judges were Atwood and Krensky. The fight was not to end until one of the men had been incapacitated. It's still a mystery how it happened—but slowly recovering at the Meloni Hospital in West Roxbury is the referee—Luftman.

"The entire nation has heard about the phenomenal scoring power of the 'Five Gees,' a basketball team whose starring members are Chalapatras, the two Weinstein boys, Gustus, and Wolfe. Perhaps the reason this team averages 114 points per game will be explained when you learn that their manager, Urick, has made it a rule never to play an opposing team whose average height is greater than Chalapatras' lifetime number of points scored or whose weight exceeds the total number of hours the Weinstein boys dedicated to outside studying at the Boston Latin School.

Professors Chalpin, Swartz, and Oden have just had their book published. The book is an absorbing study of one of the world's most thrilling and dangerous sports. Its title is—'Chess'. And this winds up another Sports newsreel until next time.

"Darman and Denning's delicious diminutive Ding-Dongs—the digestible, delectable, table, and delightful cereal are offering a magnificent premium. For only 100,000 Ding-Dong box tops and thirteen cents for the cost of handling and postage, we send you absolutely free your choice of a handsome Shep Dog. These fine animals are raised by the 'Doggy' Zaff Kennels located in South Roxbury. And now, Mr. White:

"Julius Praglin, visiting Hollywood, was yesterday forcibly evicted from the city. After Praglin had flopped miserably in his violin rendition of the Pretiz Concerto at the Villa Music Hall, Julius took a job at the Berg, Schwartz, Severson, and Robinson Skonk Works. Praglin's daily tune on his fiddle has now been changed to 'Hiss and Smell.'

"Here in Hollywood, a new movie company has been formed with 'Sharpie' O'Connor as President, Tessier as Vice-President and Lyne as Treasurer. The money for the project is being supplied by that multi-millionaire P. B. Gold. The company has cornered some of the finest talent of the country. 'Joe' Roveto (the self-made man who worships his creator) will be cast in all the super-duper horror films, and Curly Lindi, Doyle, and Hagman will serve as the handsome heroes in torrid love pictures. The feature swooner crooner will be the 'Voice'—Frankie Wahl, and the technical side of productions will be handled by Mac Laren, Del Bianco, and Gillis.

"The other day in New York a stirring new soap opera had its premiere. The serial 'Dearest John', or 'I Took My Girl to the F.H.A. to Get Her a Loan', written by Conrad Nagel and 'Teddy' Mea, stars 'Bud' Regan and 'Marie' Donovan.

"The Moral Uplift Society of Upper Basin Street has announced its newly elected officers: Desmond, President; Joy, Vice-President; and Snyder Publicity Director. The Society's object is to spread Latin School culture to the four corners of the earth. In its latest edition of its scholarly magazine 'Esquire', the Society proudly announced that Professors Cort, Yavner, and Lento—the nation's foremost authorities on spherical geometry, had become the majority stockholders in a new revue with a huge chorus. Quote the pros, 'For humanity's benefit we have decided to continue our scholarly research into the subject of curves and lines. . . .

"And thus, Ladies and Gentlemen, 'Report to the Nation'—the visionary broadcast of what has become of the now famous Class of '44 is hereby ended."

CLASS SONG

*O, Alma Mater, dear and true,
Boston Latin, hail to you.
O Foster mother, fair and kind Friends like you are hard to find,
And now that you have bid us go
We give to you the thanks we owe,
And though we leave your watchful care
Fond mem'ries we'll always share.*

REFRAIN

*We'll ne'er forget your kindly light
That showed to us the paths of right,
And though today we have to part
You are always in our heart.*

SPORTS

"The greatest team I've ever coached"

When Coach Fitzgerald spoke these memorable words, he fully realized the significance of the statement. Yet, he did not retract one syllable; and we who have watched this year's team in action know that in the 1943 Purple and White eleven the coach had a really outstanding aggregation. His boys went into each game with a burning desire to win and played hard but clean football to this end.

The first string backfield of Harwood, Gallagher, Garvin, and Dacey, left little to be desired. Harwood and "Gall", on many all-scholastic lists, ran opposing linesmen ragged all season. The educated toes of Garvin and his substitute "Lou" Tessier proved to be the difference between a good and a great season. The scythe-like blocking of "Red" Dacey and the trusty right arm of "Bombardier" McMorrow were other key points in the Purple attack.

The Purple forward wall—seven veritable blocks of granite—played inspiring football all season, and rose to superhuman heights in the Mud Bowl on Thanksgiving morning. With Donovan, Regan, and Shields on the flanks, Brown and O'Neil playing at the tackle posts, Murphy and Kolovson at guards, and Hogan at center, the B.L.S. line cleared the way for their more publicized backfield colleagues.

These figures prove beyond a doubt that this year's Boston Latin football juggernaut was all that Coach Fitzgerald said and "heaven too". Our congratulations to a fighting squad; Latin School may well be proud of them.

HOCKEY

The Purple and White puck chasers rang down the curtain on a highly successful 1944 season by defeating English High (3-2) and thus capturing the coveted city championship. Although they were greatly handicapped in the latter part of the season by the illness of Coach Fitzgerald, the Latin boys refused to be counted out and swept through their last few games with an indomitable will-to-win.

Memorial was beaten in the opening game, 6-2. High hopes for an undefeated season were rudely dashed to the ground when our sextet was vanquished by Trade in another 6-2 encounter. From then on, however, it was clear sailing; and the Purple destroyer did not weigh anchor until it had subdued Commerce, Dorchester, Mechanics, and English.

Latin's first-string line Tessier, Douglass, and Hamilton was little short of terrific, while the defense duo of Hogan and Hunter, along with Goalie Serverson was universally acclaimed the "cream of the league." Able assistance was provided those battle-scarred veterans by the following spares: Waldron, Rodman, Austin, Higgins, and Connolly. The team was capably guided in its quest for glory by Coach Fitzgerald, his substitute Mr. Frank Cleary, and Manager Felix Cogliano.

The lettermen were Austin, Connolly, Douglass, Hamilton, Higgins, Hogan, Hunter, McMorrow, Rodman, Serverson, Sternburg, Tessier, Waldron, Wolfe, Villa, and Cogliano, Manager.

BASKETBALL

Refusing to yield to the inevitable, a "never-say-die" Purple and White quintet subdued vaunted English High 25-23, and thus gained one of the top spots in a three-way tie for the city basketball championship. Trailing, at half-time, by the dismal score of 17-8, in an almost supernatural reversal of form the Latins completely demoralized the double Blue and, with flawless passing and shooting, stole the "bacon" from right under the noses of the English quintet. This thrilling two-point victory was the crowning achievement in the festivities of a season which marked the resurrection of the hoop game in Boston after a 31-year interment.

Our Boston Latin squad under the capable direction of Coach "Steve" Patten, completed the 1944 season with a record of five wins as against two defeats. Two straight losses at the hands of Memorial and Trade painted a gloomy picture just before the English tussle. However, the smashing triumph in that finale, coupled with an impressive showing made by the Purple in racking up four consecutive early season wins, convinced everyone that the Latin team was of championship caliber.

"Bob" Woolf, a superb performer all season long, was tremendous in the English game, when he notched fourteen points and was instrumental in engineering that immortal second half comeback. Capt. "Chet" Wolfe, sole senior on the starting five, will long be remembered for his spectacular one-handed basket that broke a 20-20 tie in the waning minutes of the English clash. "Bert" Rodman, who succeeded Freshman "Jim" Savage in the forward slot, was renowned for his aggressive brand of play and those "shrewd" left-handed lay-up shots. "Matt" Branche, holding down one of the guard positions, had a one-man monopoly on the backboards during the four games in which he saw service. Rounding out the starting five was "Joe" Vanderslice, a lanky string-bean guard, famous throughout the circuit for his amazing defensive prowess. Stellar substitutes included Hurd, Jones, the Weinstein twins, and Salett.

The Jayvees, who enjoyed a creditable season, were paced by "Lil John" Chalapatias.

Lettermen were Branche, Chalapatias, Hurd, Jones, Rittenburg, Rodman, Salett, Savage, Tessier, Vanderslice, D. Weinstein, N. Weinstein, Wolfe (Captain), Woolf, Young, Rovetto (Manager).

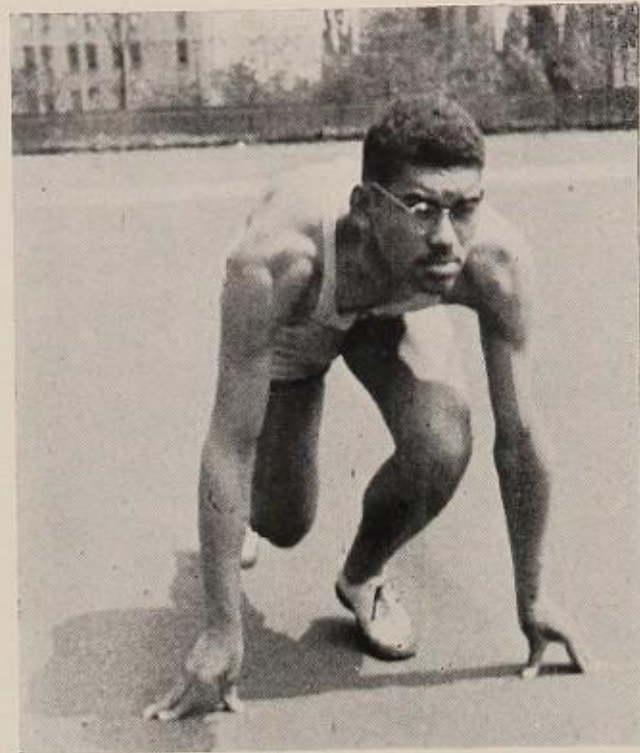

TRACK

The Latin School track team may justly be proud of its showing in the 1944 season. Victorious in several of the Boston Conference meets, the team lived up to its reputation by finishing second to omnipotent English High in the Regimentals.

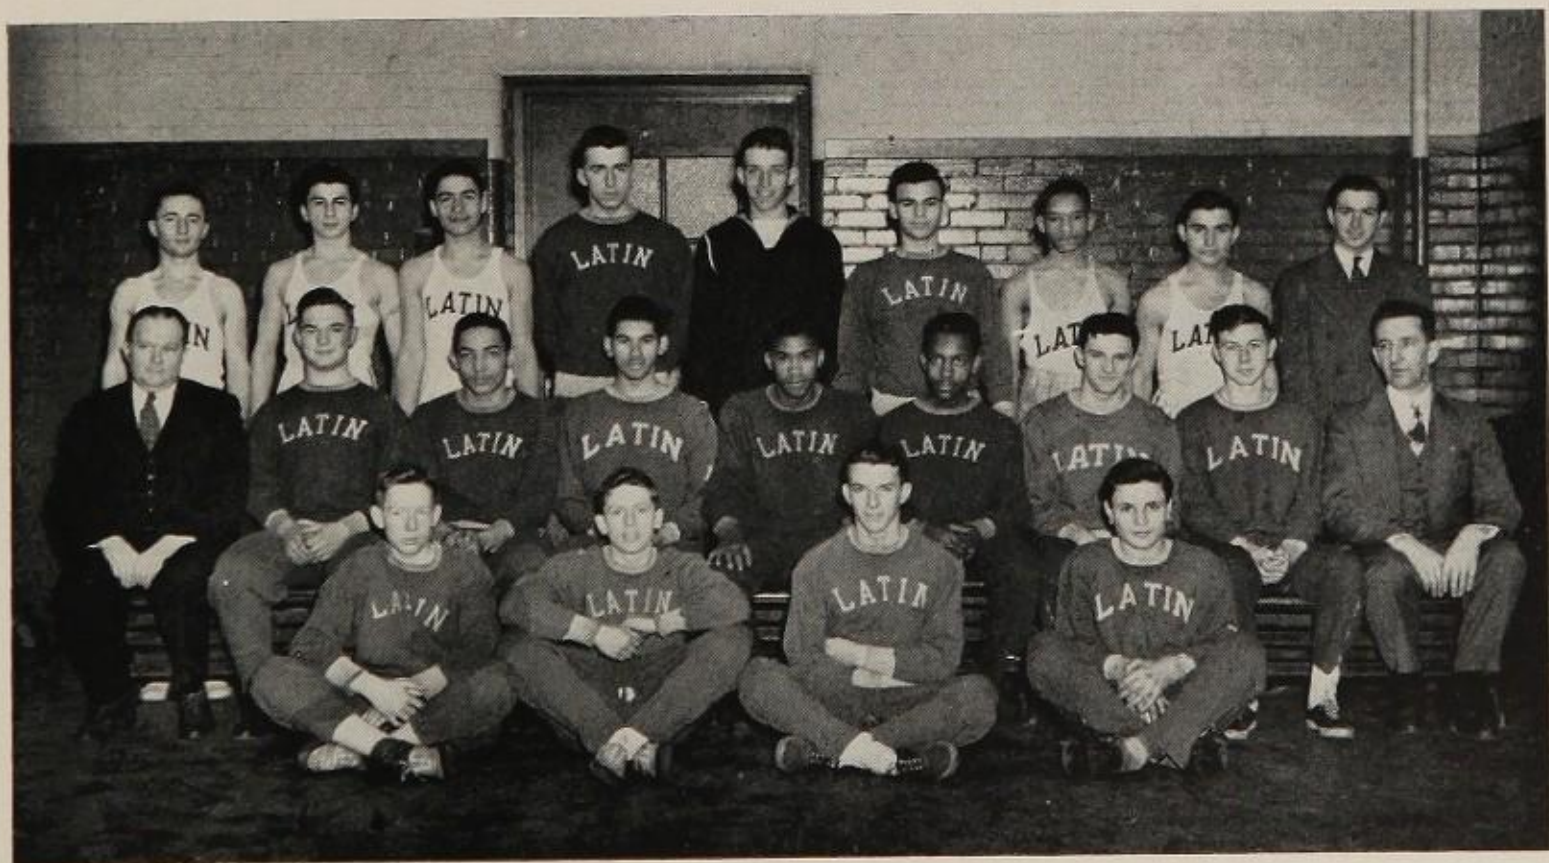

High-water mark of the season's proceedings was that the only Regimental records broken were accredited to B.L.S. representatives. Outstanding individual performance in that department was Carl Parsons' dazzling run in the A-B 440, in which he deflated the record from 57 to 54.6 seconds. "Matt" Branche, victor in the C hurdles, soared to a new mark of 5 feet 10½ inches in the high jump. It was inevitable that when these two speed demons combined in the Medley Relay with "Art" Collins, Reggie 300 leader, and "Ed" Ardolino D dash star, a mark would fall. The new time is destined to be sustained for many a moon.

In addition to the noteworthies mentioned above, Latin was blessed with a galaxy of fleet-footed stars. O'Malley and McNulty, before their entrance to college, were outstanding in the A-B 300. "Austie" O'Connor was a constant point-reaper in the A-B broad jump. Leo Wesner startled the experts with his smashing victory in the "Reggie" 600. Colson in the dash and broad jump, Bronstein, in the C220, R. Braithwaite in the A-B hurdles, and Gettleman in the 1000 were other stellar performers.

The lettermen were Ardolino, A. Braithwaite, R. Braithwaite, Branche, Bronstein, Collins, Colson, Connolly, Curran, Field, Gettleman, Gilbert, Lurie, Parsons, Raskind, Rettner, Semonian, Wesner, and Cogliano (Manager).

TENNIS

Our Boston Latin tennis team shows great promise for the approaching 1944 season. Led by Co-captains "Bert" Rodman and "Matt" Branche, who should be serious contenders for the individual honors in the state playoffs, the Purple have a galaxy of old-timers and a batch of newcomers who round out a well-balanced outfit. Entrenched in third position is "Dick" Sidman, while Saul Rosen, George Chalpin, "Burt" Rettner, and Eliot Swartz complete the temporary first-string roster.

Outstanding newcomers include Cadigan, Abramson, Nawon, Wiseman, and Shulman. Under the capable guidance of Mr. Dolan, the team should uphold its high tradition on a difficult six-match schedule, interrupted by the several all-state tournaments.

BASEBALL

At this writing very little good news can be reported of the fortunes of the Purple and White nine, but prospects are bright. Coach Fitzgerald has been blessed with several old-timers and a hatful of new hopefuls who show promise.

On the mound, leading candidates include "Lou" Tessier, star of last year's outfit and one of the team's leading batters, "Benny" Weinbaum, another Senior; and "Danny" Farmer, a Junior. On the receiving end of the battery are "Shanty" Hogan, whose rifle-like throws have stopped many an over-ambitious baserunner and "Bill" Shields of football renown.

In the infield we find Douglass, Ardolino, Teehan, and Waldron, Turley, Roche, Glennone, "Nate" Weinstein, "Eddie" O'Neill, and "Stan" Rittenberg.

In the outer gardens Latin is fortunate in having several outstanding "ball-hawks": "Art" Collins, Reggie 300-yard champ;

"Sugar" Shagoury, an outstanding sticker and an occasional twirler. "Dick" Semonian, and other track star; and "Dutch" Holland.

For sixty-two consecutive years, the boys of Boston Latin School have endeavored to bring forth a publication not only worthy of the best traditions of our school, but also pleasing to the entire student body. The 1944 staff was faced with this annual task as sixty-one staffs of the past had been. The six issues indicate that this year's incumbents met the challenge. No one individual was responsible for what success was achieved; it was rather the combined effort of the two-score or so boys on the literary and business staffs and the faculty advisers that brought results.

The various departments are coördinated by an executive board, which selects approved material and sets up copy. This board at present consists of Maurice Liss, Maurice Kolovson, and Henry Steeger. The literary staff consists of hard-working individuals who supply most of the stories, verse, editorials, and articles that appear on the pages of the Register. The 1944 staff includes Maurice Kolovson, Harold Seifer, Martin Mondlick, Alexander Traverso, William Rosen, and Henry Pinsker. Regular feature columns are ably written by Arthur Goldman, "Duke" Rosen, Frederick Atwood, Eliot Shapiro, and Brendan P. MacGovern.

The cover drawings and cartoons that have graced the various issues are the handiwork of Henry Steeger and Deane Georgeadis, who conduct the art department.

On the other side of the fence, the business staff toils to persuade, threaten, or cajole the obstinate who do not immediately subscribe. The net result has been that eighty-five per cent of the student body are subscribers. Credit is due Business Manager Liss and his colleagues Atwood, Shapiro, Koffman, Krensky, Salett, Jacobs, Golding, and Lerner. Closely allied to the circulation staff is the advertising staff, through whose labor much-needed revenue is obtained. We point with pride to Advertising Manager Haveles, Assistant Manager DeSesa, and J. Gettelman.

Thanks go to Mr. Marson, literary adviser; Mr. Wenners, business adviser; and Mr. Dunn, Yearbook adviser. They give generously of their time and labor to produce a better magazine. Their aid and never-failing advice has contributed not a little towards another successful year.

Second Row: Shapiro, Burns, Abramson, Karass, Vafiades, Sullivan, Glazer, Rosen, Lyne, Sidman, Yavner, Pappas, Sher.

Third Row: Mr. Weners, Binder, Luftman, Gettleman, Rovit, Fishman, Donovan, Seifer, Mondlick, Seevack, Koffman, Mr. Marson.

Rear Row: Pinsker, MacGovern, Bush, Resnick, Gallant, Goldberg, Yarosh, Georgeadis, Stoller, Goldsmith, Cushner, Lelecas, Karas, Wolfe.

DEBATING CLUB

One need only to have visited Room 206 on alternating Tuesdays to obtain the highlights of the global war and conditions of our homefront. Vital subjects, affecting the well-being of us all, have been reflected in public discussions and debates by members of the Debating Club.

During the first part of the year discussions of the "Town Meeting" type predominated. Kevin F. MacGovern won the honor of representing Boston on the "Town Meeting" broadcast, which originated from our own assembly hall on December 9. MacGovern was selected over Herbert L. Shulman, James J. Sullivan, and Chester F. Collier in our own eliminations.

In 1944 several interscholastic debates were arranged. The outstanding ones were formal, with Brookline High School and Boston College High. In the first instance, the teams debated the question of subsidies as a means of checking inflation. In the second, the postponement of the coming Presidential election was argued with the

B.C. High representatives. Latin was ably represented in both debates, Shulman and Sullivan, respectively, having the burdens of rebuttal.

Thanks to our coaches, Dr. John E. Collins and Dr. William H. Marnell, the Debating Club has enjoyed a very active and successful season.

The officers:

President—J. J. SULLIVAN

Vice-President—A. F. LYNE

Advisory Board

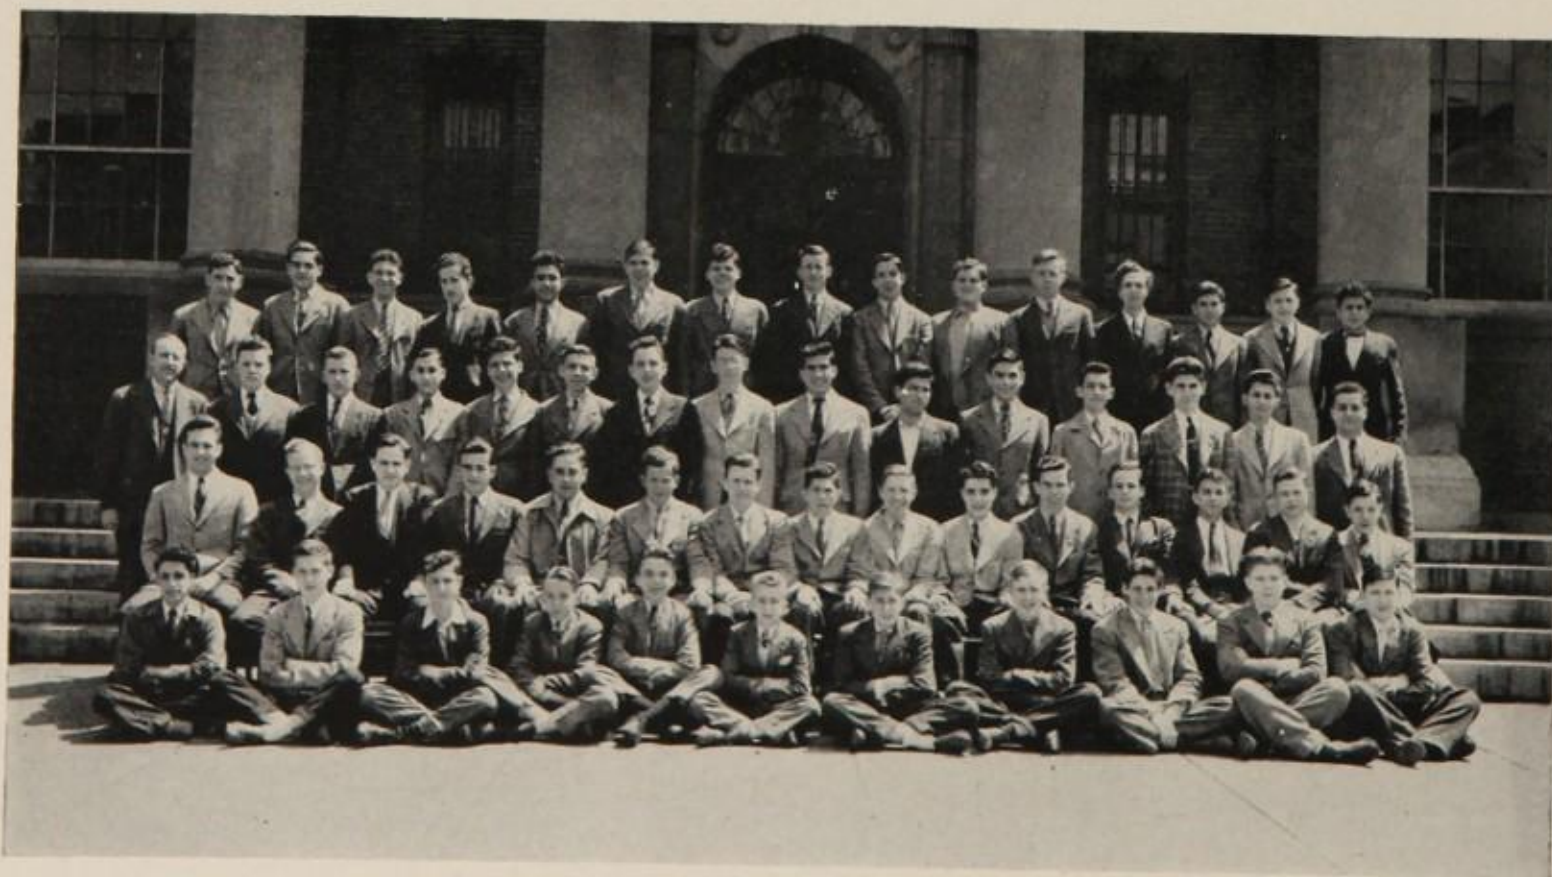

H. L. SHULMAN and K. F. MACGOVERN

Secretary—W. E. DACEY

Sergeant-at-Arms—J. F. McNULTY

Faculty Adviser—DR. COLLINS

Active debaters, in addition to officers, have included the following: P. F. Hines, W.D. Gillis, J. Silverstein, and A. B. Sullivan.

DRAMATICS CLUB

Operating successfully amid the usual difficulties that beset school organizations in this nation at war, our young but able Thespians have staged two excellent productions that have carried on the high standards and traditions of the club. Credit must be given to Director Mark Russo and his able assistants—Dr. Marnell and Dr. Callanan.

The first venture was a pageant from the pen of Dr. William H. Marnell, entitled "One Enduring Purpose." It was acted three times for the annual assemblies during the Washington Lincoln Exercises.

The cast included:

Abraham LincolnRobert Hunter, '44
George WashingtonWilliam Gillis, '44
Woodrow WilsonPeter F. Hines, '45
NarratorJames J. Sullivan, '44
Offstage voiceAlfred B. Sullivan, '45

Then, on the first Friday in May, the Club concluded its hard work with the production of a comedy-farce—"The Spooks", which earned the enthusiasm of a delighted capacity audience.

The cast:

Police Officer.....Eugene Del Bianco, '44

Praise is due the G. L. S. Dramatic Society, which contributed a number of able actresses to our cast.

Much credit must also be given to the unheralded but indispensable workers behind the scenes—the stagecrew: "Dick" Russo, "Phil" Hurley, "Joe" Dougherty, "Bill" Dacey, "Joe" Rovetto, and their earnest assistants.

MUSIC APPRECIATION CLUB

The aims of the Music Appreciation Club have been threefold: to develop an appreciation of good music through recordings and discussion; to afford the opportunity of enjoying good music during school hours; to keep members informed of current musical events.

On account of the war, activities had been curtailed. However the club was the sponsor for the annual concert of the Boston Public School's Symphony Orchestra.

At the few meetings held, works of Beethoven, Franck, Brahms and modern composers were heard.

The officers, who were elected late in the year are as follows:

President—JOSEPH CORT

Vice-President—DANIEL ZWICK

Secretary—WILLIAM MARGOLD

FRENCH CLUB

In spite of the difficulty of establishing clubs this year, Mr. Levine has come through with flying colors. Beginning with boys from his homeroom who study French and gradually interesting other boys from Classes II and III, the club has grown to sizable proportions.

The Cercle encourages members to improve their French pronunciation and grammar. Recordings played by Mr. Levine on the phonograph have acquainted the members with French music and with some of the artists also. Because of war conditions, the French Club has not enjoyed the presence of distinguished visitors, as have the members of previous years. All conversation is in French, and various boys are chosen to read articles from French papers and magazines.

Shepard Zaff has taken care of the crossword puzzle department, while "Bill" Rosen, "Duke" Rosen, White, Mondlick, and Meloni have reported on special subjects. A talk by Mr. Levine in French, on current events in France, has been a regular feature of the meetings.

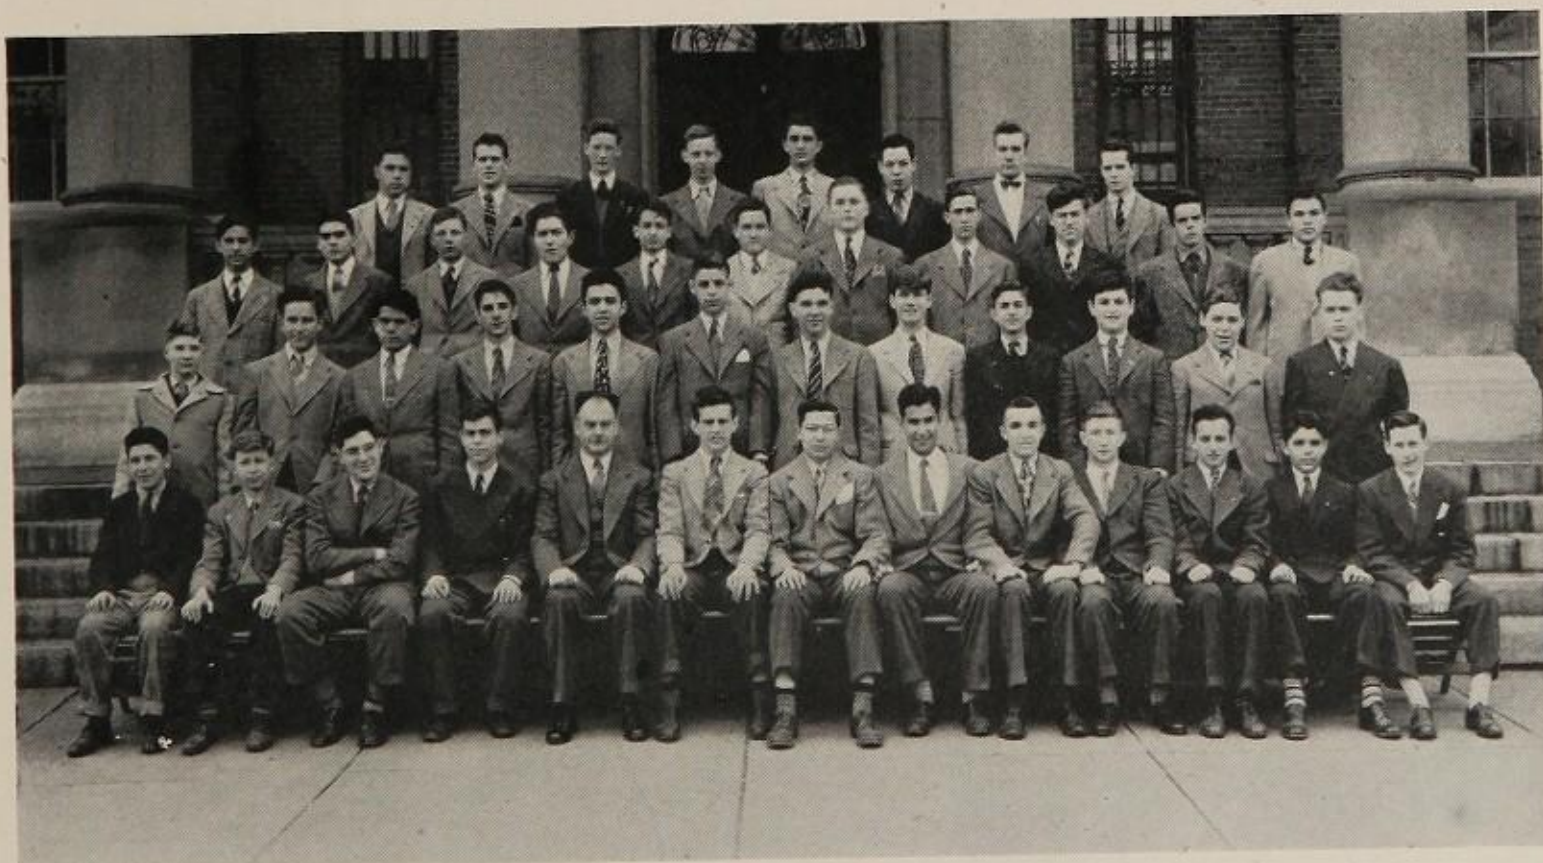

Considering wartime difficulties and handicaps, "Le Cercle Français" has admirably succeeded in maintaining its high standards.

The officers:

President—S. ZAFF

Secretary—C. MELONI

Faculty Adviser—MR. LEVINE

CAMERA CLUB

The Camera Club enjoyed a late starting but most interesting season.

The process of developing and printing was fully demonstrated by the officers, giving beginners a chance to develop skill in one of the most useful of hobbies.

A lecture by Mr. Taylor illustrated with numerous kodachrome slides provided an informative and most enjoyable meeting climaxing the club's successful season.

Boys had a chance to show their fine work in the Camera Club's Annual Salon Contest.

The most fruitful and interesting year can be accredited to the efforts of Mr. Carroll, Faculty Adviser, and diligent officers.

The Officers:

President—SARLE RESNICK

Vice-President—JOHN J. WAITE

Secretary-Treasurer—ALAN R. BUSH

LITERARY CLUB

Owing to unavoidable circumstances, the activities of the Literary Club have been started late in February. Despite these handicaps, however, the club has enjoyed an interesting and entertaining year.

At each meeting, a member of the club has given a talk on an author or type of literature in which he is particularly interested. In that way, the subject-matter has expressed the individual tastes of members. Following the talks, the literary quizzes have proved to be most enjoyable.

To Dr. Callanan, faculty adviser, the Club acknowledges sincere gratitude for his interest and for his informative and stimulating remarks in supplementing discussions. The officers:

President—WILLIAM ROSEN

Vice-President—SAUL W. ROSEN

Secretary—WILLIAM MARGOLD

Treasurer—MARTIN MONDLICK

Sergeant-at-Arms—DANIEL I. ZWICK

Faculty Adviser

DR. JAMES A. S. CALLANAN

CHESS CLUB

The Chess Club of the Boston Latin School has enjoyed a highly successful season during this war-year of 1944. Despite the lack of an adviser and the departure of the team's leading player, the first team garnered the second place berth in the hotly contested Greater Boston Chess League. Highlight of the season was the startling performance of our "Purple and White" second team, who captured first place in the Junior Division.

Our opponents included pawn-pushers from Brookline High, our most accomplished adversaries, Cambridge High, Roxbury Memorial, Huntington, and Malden High, a newcomer to the league.

The first team was fortunate in having as its guiding lights such gifted players as Alvin Luftman, secretary of the G. B. League; "Leo" Boruchoff, president "pro tempore" after "Mac" Young's departure; Saul Rosen, secretary-treasurer of the club; Arnie Abrams, a talented senior; Norton Levy, Manfred Oden, and a promising junior in the shape of Richard Masters.

ORCHESTRA

A profitable and successful season has been spent by the Public Latin School Orchestra under the able direction of Mr. Joseph Wagner. Though handicapped by the loss through graduation of many of its best players—notably in the woodwind and brass sections, the orchestra has nevertheless maintained the high standards by which it has earned its reputation. The programs played at the Christmas, Washington-Lincoln, Class Day, and Graduation Exercises were well received by the school and its friends.

The School Orchestra is primarily an organization dedicated to the advancement of talented student-musicians of the school. The orchestra numbers among its alumni Leonard Bernstein, assistant conductor of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, and many other successful professional musicians.

The officers:

HIGHWAY SAFETY CLUB

Latin School has the distinction of being the first school in the City of Boston to answer the call of Uncle Sam's Army motor corps for young men who have had some training in motor vehicle operation, maintenance, and highway safety procedure.

In conjunction with the National Safety Council and the office of Frank A. Goodwin, Registrar of Motor Vehicles, an intensive course in automotive skills has been given for the past few weeks by Mr. Thomas F. Mahan of Room 204. Forty boys sixteen years of age or over have attended the classes. A comprehensive textbook, "Man and the Motor Car", together with a supplementary booklet on war time driving, has been diligently studied by the course members.

Mr. Mahan has, particularly stressed wartime operation and maintenance with a view to efficiency in Army motor units for those who may join this branch of the service.

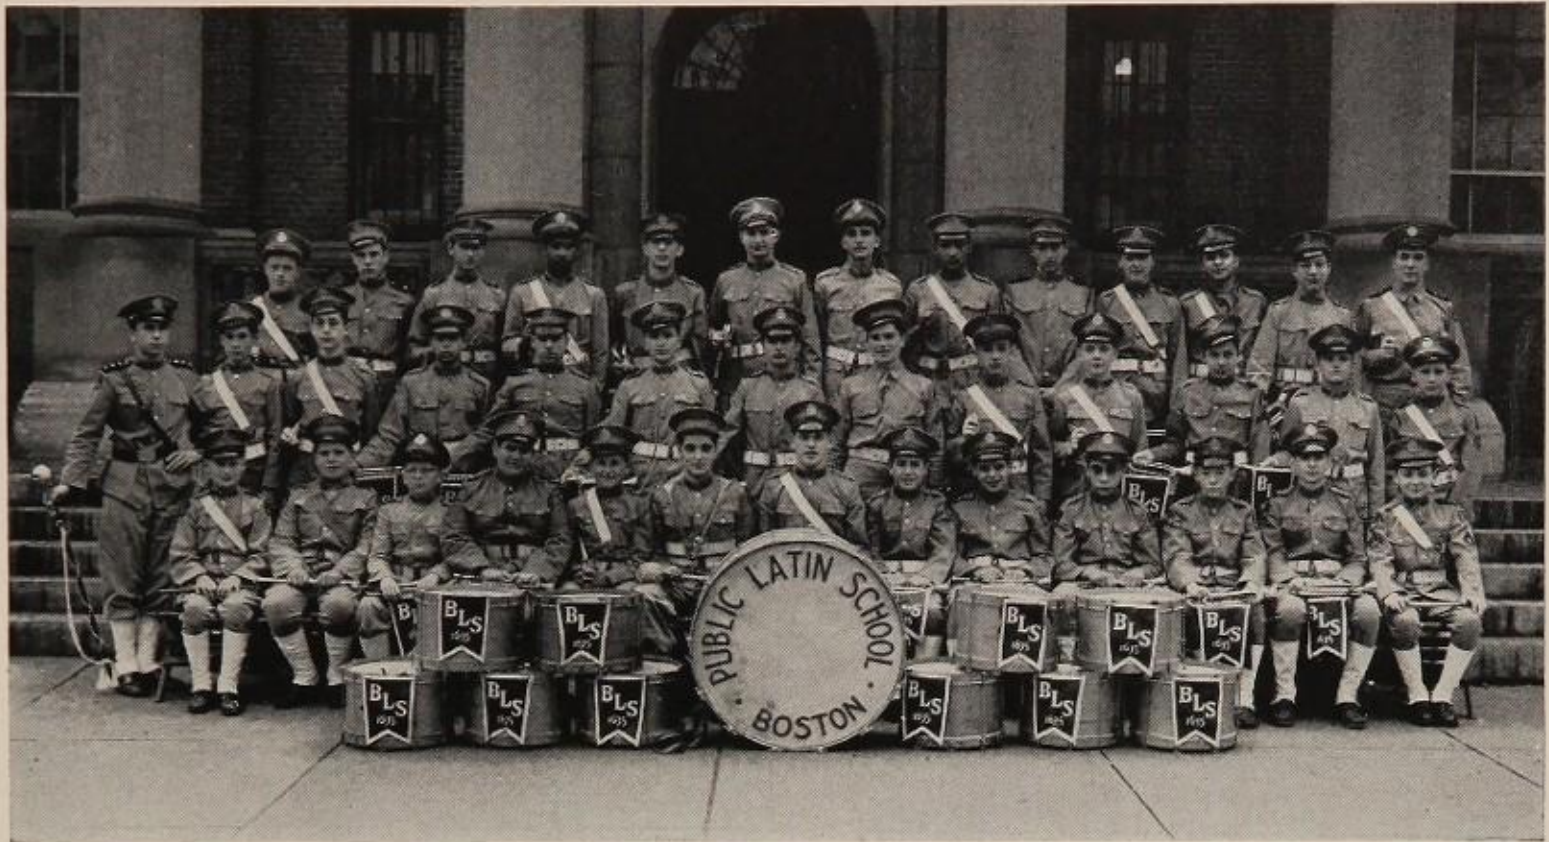

At the third meeting of the class an officer from the First Service Command gave an interesting talk on military transportation. He stressed the importance of a well-organized motor corps in modern warfare, emphasizing the need of the Army for trained drivers.

At a later meeting, we had as speaker Mr. Eugene Fanning, from the Registrar's office. In a brief talk, Mr. Fanning showed the need for trained drivers in every community and stated that Mr. Goodwin's office is vitally interested in driver training courses for high school youths.

Other topics considered during the month were rules of the road, traffic signals, stopping distances, driving hazards, and physical fitness of drivers. At the conclusion of the program, "graduation" exercises were held in the Assembly Hall for those who successfully completed the course and passed the examination set by the Massachusetts Safety Council.
